Today!

Our living comfort and the high speed of modern business are largely the results of the invention and skillful adaptation of a multitude of time and labor saving devices and services.

The telephone is conceded high rank among such accessories in both business and social life.

Nearby and in distant places, the telephone brings individuals voice to voice—the nearest approach to being face to face.

In home life or the business world, use of the telephone has come to mean convenience, speed, economy and more personality in every contact.

A. K. Receiver Is Featured In Big Vaudeville Sketch

June Pursell and Ron Wilson, her accompanist, with A. K. speaker used on Orpheum Circuit.

One of the features of the vaudeville act now being used by Miss June Pursell, the original radio girl, on the Orpheum circuit is the Atwater Kent radio which Miss Pursell uses all through this novel offering. With her accompanist, Ron Wilson, the radio girl demonstrates the difference between the straight singing voice and how it is heard over radio through the loud speaker. This demonstration proves the often mooted question as to whether or not radio improved or detracted from the tone quality of a singer. During Miss Pursell's act it is

May Make Motor Oil Last for Long Time

A simple method of treating used motor oil so that it will be a better lubricant than it was when originally placed in the motor has been worked out at the University of Southern California. According to the University chemists, the claim that the regenerated crankcase oil is superior to the original product is supported by government and industrial experts, but so strong is the popular prejudice against a lubricant regenerated from waste barrels in garages that the commercial possibilities for the use of it so far are limited.

Popular prejudice against regenerated crankcase oil is in part well founded, the Trojan chemists say, because a rather common practice now is to treat used oil in a cheap, superficial way, usually by filtering, and sell it as good oil. The method of treatment devised at the University of Southern California involves a thorough reprocessing. Sulphuric acid is used first to draw off foreign substances, and filtering, steaming, neutralizing and bleaching follow, until the result is a product more free from gum-forming elements than the original oil. Nothing has been added, no chemical change has taken place, but many impurities have been removed and a purer lubricatory residuum remains. The process is comparatively cheap.

Among the possibilities predicted for the near future are motors which will regenerate the oil automatically, making a change of oil necessary only every ten thousand miles or more, and only then to remove impurities.
